LTV Studios is partnering with Mark MK McLaughlin in a benefit for the Bridgehampton Child Care and Recreational Center (BHCCC) on Saturday, March 18. This musical event, with a smattering of guest speakers, will be held at LTV Studios in Wainscott. Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

Mark MK will host the event as well as perform with the night's house band, The Kenny Harris Project, who are also longtime supporters of BHCCC. Singer-songwriter Mark MK, who hails from Riverhead, has been making moves as an indie artist after collaborating with major artists like Shaggy, Flo Rida, John Legend and Snoop Dogg. He specializes in Pop, R&B, Hip-Hop and Caribbean music. He has been working with LTV in developing and producing his own studio show, entitled "The MK Report," which will premiere soon on LTV and other broadcasting stations.

"We are truly excited to be working with Mark. He is a real professional and brings a unique perspective to our channel as well as augmenting an East End demographic that has long needed additional community exposure on our station," said Michael Clark, LTV's executive director. "In addition, doing a benefit for our friends at The Center is just a natural fit."

Other local entertainers slated to perform are Dawnette Darden of the Hoodoo Loungers, Paul Mahos of New Life Crisis, Calliope and DJ DMP.

"It's great to see the support and be able to showcase some local talent as well," said McLaughlin, "Teaming up with LTV Studios for this concert and a new talk show, creating awareness for a great cause and amplifying unity in the name of harmony are all the reasons I love music and our community."

Tickets for the event are $20 with a discount for seniors and those under 18 and are available at lveh.org or by texting LTVHarmony to 41444. LTV Studios are at 75 Industrial Road in Wainscott.
